TAXI!

B.C. Transportation Minister Kevin Falcon — recently snubbed by a cab driver — targets Lower Mainland and Victoria taxi companies with measures that include:

- Spot checks and stings to weed out crooked cabbies;
- Ensuring all new taxis are hybrid or fuel-efficient;
- A bill of rights for riders.

NEWS A6

An elderly couple get out of a taxi on Vancouver's Georgia Street yesterday. The taxi industry is under growing pressure to be more considerate of riders. JASON PHINE — THE PROVINCE

Just peachy

She's been known to spar with the paparazzi, she hasn't come close to an Oscar (though her chequing account would beg to differ) and she can be edgy at best on the red carpet (trust me). But it doesn't take a fashion clairvoyant to tell you that Cameron D's style intuition has always been blockbuster.

She made goffing look temptingly chic in Something About Mary (loved the fitted V-necks, loved the shrunken polos). She looked cocktail-ready in Charlie's Angels (that one-shoulder top was so hip at the time) and single-handedly put the chunky turquoise necklace, the no-frills chocolate-brown bikini and giant third-finger cocktail rings on the radar screen. So herewith, a little Cameron-inspired coral and various other treasures, right on cue for spring.
